Dear Valued Customer,

In these unprecedented times of uncertainty, we believe communication is key. Dynisco is fully committed to fighting the spread of COVID-19 and supporting the healthcare workers and first responders who continue to risk their lives each day.

Because our production is business essential, we are in production and maintaining operations during this fight. To adhere to regulations set forth by the CDC and government officials, the majority of Dynisco's non-production staff are working remotely and are equipped with the tools and resources to continue to best serve you. To protect the health of our production employees, we are closely adhering to all recommended CDC actions to promote hygiene and safety.

This is a challenging time for all of us, but we will continue to make decisions guided by our core values to support our global community.

Sincerely,

John Biagioni
President, Dynisco
